RESPONSE TO AMENDMENT

1. Claims 1-10 and 14-20 are pending in the application, claims 1-10 are withdrawn from consideration. Claims 11-13 have been cancelled.
2. Amendments to the specification and the claims, filed on July 19, 2006, have been entered in the above-identified application.

REJECTIONS

3. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. Claims 14-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Moore et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,114,595).

Moore discloses an absorbent article (title) comprising a liquid permeable cover layer (topsheet, title), a liquid impermeable backsheet (col. 4, line 32) and an absorbent core (col. 4, line 33) positioned between the liquid permeable layer and the backsheet (figure 2 and col. 4, lines 28-35). The liquid permeable layer comprises an apertued film (figure 3) and with one or more profiled elements (surface aberration, col. 9, lines 16-17). The profiled elements are deemed to impart a depth into the cover layer (figure 3) operable to increase separation between the absorbent core and skin of a wearer of the absorbent article (figure 4) that is deemed to effectively provide enhanced prevention of liquids rewetting the surface of the cover layer (col.

Art Unit: 1772

2, lines 17-38). The cover layer is deemed to be effective to improve fluid handling and caliper performance to allow for human exudates to quickly enter the absorbent core (col. 5, lines 14-25 and col. 7, line 52 through col. 8, line 13). The apertured film is selected from the group consisting of a reticulated film and a microporous film (col. 8, lines 35-41). The apertured film comprises a thermoplastic composition selected from the group consisting of polypropylene, polyethylene and combinations thereof (col. 7, line 58). The cover layer further comprises at least one performance additive (col. 14, lines 24-29). The lubricant additives are deemed to be a skin wellness additive because it helps the microcreping process which provides a soft, pleasing visual and tactile impression to the wearer (col. 3 lines 3-6).

The limitation “wherein said film is affected by a heat source and incremental force while positioned upon a forming apparatus so as to impart one or more profiled elements into said apertured film” is a method limitation and does not determine the patentability of the product, unless the process produces unexpected results. The method of forming the product is not germane to the issue of patentability of the product itself, unless Applicant presents evidence from which the Examiner could reasonably conclude that the claimed product differs in kind from those of the prior art. MPEP 2113.

ANSWERS TO APPLICANT'S ARGUMENTS

5. Applicant's arguments in the response filed July 19, 2006 regarding the previous rejections of record have been considered but are moot due to the new grounds of rejection.

Conclusion

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
